

The Discredited Medical Subject in Health Policy and Practice: First Nations Women in Northern British Columbia

Friday | May 2, 2003 | 2:30-4:00 pm

A presentation by:

Jo-Anne Fiske (B. Ed., MA, and PhD) is Professor of Women/Gender Studies and First Nations Studies at the University of Northern British Columbia.

Annette Browne (BN, MSN, PhD) is an Assistant Professor of Nursing at the University of British Columbia.

This study draws on the 'anthropology of policy' to delineate ways in which health policy and practices discredit Aboriginal women as medical subjects even as the government calls upon them as valued citizens to participate in formulating and implementing beneficial health policies.
